Chief Klaumann Reveals Traffic Violations Top Police Offenses Handled By Department In 1961

Issuance of traffic violation citations, 11,399 in all, heads the list of Carmel Police Department activities in 1961, according to the annual report submitted to the city council last night by Police Chief Clyde Klaumann.

Police also investigated 4,672 complaints; arrested 222 persons; apprehended 79 juveniles and 44 stray dogs; made 2,616 reports.

The most frequent traffic violation was overtime parking, for which 6,728 tickets were issued by the police. Second largest traffic offense was faulty parking with 1,796 instances. Speeding, 597 cases, ranked third. Parking in a loading zone, 574 citations, was fourth. Ignoring stop signs, 405 cases, was in fifth position. Ten persons received traffic tickets for turning in the middle of a block, 159 for double parking, 156 for parking in a driveway, 284 for parking in a no parking zone, and 142 for parking in a passenger loading zone. Thirty-five persons were cited for having no operator's license; 21 for not having a license in their possession when a traffic violation took place. Twenty-three drivers received citations for noisy mufflers, 125 for parking in a crosswalk, 40 for parking on a sidewalk. There were 20 citations last year for unattended vehicles. One citation was issued for leaving a child in a locked vehicle.

Last year 16 complaints of dog-bites were received by the police department, and 164 complaints about other animal annoyances. There was one complaint of a church robbery, 20 on robberies in residences, four in motels, one in a school, and five in stores. Disturbance complaints totaled 231. Shops and offices investigated following complaints numbered 429.

Two hundred and seventy complaints about juveniles were received by the police. They had 331 complaints about missing property; 306 about property found; 77 on property damage; 94 about prowlers. There were 129 complaints about thefts from vehicles; 132 petty theft complaints; 19 about stolen cars; three grand theft complaints. Traffic collision complaints totaled 267.

Complaints were also received about 22 obscene telephone calls, four obscene exposures, and 16 complaints on perversion.

The greatest number of arrests by police in 1961 were on warrants for wanted persons, 84 in all. They also arrested 60 juveniles for being in possession of liquor. There were eight drunk driving arrests; 22 for

The board of directors of the Monterey Highway Improvement Association reports four surveys of billboards in the county have been made since the group re-organized in September and, so far, 23 advertisers have eliminated their billboard advertising locations in this county.

Nine advertisers have pledged cooperation with the association once current contract commitments are satisfied. Sixty-eight billboard advertisers have not responded to the association requests for billboard advertising elimination.

The December census was 496 billboards in Monterey County, ten less than in November. Membership in the association now numbers 6,388. Money in the treasury is $16.66 and there are no outstanding debts.

Kelsey Again Heads March Of Dimes Carmel Campaign

Jim Kelsey, chairman again this year for the local March of Dimes campaign, placed collection canisters around Carmel on Tuesday.

The current National Foundation drive to provide funds for the treatment of persons suffering from polio, birth defects and arthritis, will continue through January 30.

The annual Mothers' March in the residence district will be held on the last day of the campaign. American Legion members will hold their business district event in support of the March of Dimes on January 13, designated as Blue Crutch Day.

The annual Mile of Dimes part of the Carmel campaign will be January 19-20 when, starting at the corner of Dolores Street, donated dimes will be laid along the north sidewalk of Ocean Avenue.

This year, Jim Kelsey has a new feature for the campaign. He has a sandwich board made which he will wear on trips about town and which holds cards for the insertion of dimes to aid the National Foundation campaign.

Junior High School Construction Ahead Of Schedule So Far

Construction work at Carmel Junior High School was apparently ahead of schedule at the beginning of the new year.

"According to the estimated schedule of payments made in December by the contractor, the school district was to have paid a sum of $52,000 to January 15," Wayne Greenfield, assistant superintendent of schools said today. "Instead the amount of the payment far exceeded the estimate. It was $112,000. So things must be moving along even more rapidly than we had hoped."

Foundations and foundation columns have already been poured for several of the buildings on the new

Council Worries About Sidewalk Planting Upkeep

The Carmel City Council spent a short evening acting on a diversified agenda yesterday. Council business ranged from denying permission for removal of a planted area at the Goold Building, Ocean and San Carlos, to granting permission for dismantling of a four-drawer, city-owned pine cabinet which, it turned out, had already been dismantled.

In denying permission to remove the planter, the council rescinded verbal permission for removal given by Street Superintendent William Askew. Mrs. Mary Goold is owner of the property, which is leased to Joe Belleci, who plans to open a gift shop there. Permission had been sought to close and surface the area on grounds it is a safety hazard. Since the planted strip has been there for 25 years, and occupies a public area on which a prior city council granted permission for intrusion, Mayor Frank Putnam wondered whether this situation would not morally oblige the city to maintain it.

Councilman John Chitwood could not see this point of view however, since historically, he said, Carmel citizens have maintained planted areas for city beautification on public premises with full consent of the city. As for the city's being culpable after denying permission to remove the planter and an accident occurs, Chitwood advised taking "the calculated risk."

Following the unanimous council action denying the permit for removal, Councilman Eben Whittlesey moved an amendment to the city code requiring council permission for removal of planted areas in the future. His suggestion was referred to the committee on administration for study.

Other council action last night included:

Unanimous passage of the first reading of the city's new ordinance limiting the time goods and materials can be stored on sidewalks and streets.

Adoption of a resolution appointing Bernard Roberts to the police reserve.

Adoption of a resolution for budget adjustment to provide $450 additional funds for the speaker cabinet at the Forest Theater, a counter in the building inspector's office and a code cabinet in the

Ceramic Art Presently Dynamic And Resurgent Encompasses Diversity

BY DORIS BIRKLAND

(Editor's Note: Doris Birkland, Carmel ceramicist, pictured above recently returned from the Eastern states where she was invited to be a judge for the Eighth International Exhibition of Ceramic Art, Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C., and where she received first award in the Hand Arts Division of the 38th Annual Women's International Exposition in New York City in November. Here are her comments on contemporary ceramics.)

The best way to find out something is to go and see.

This I have done, viewing what was undoubtedly a representative sampling of all the better work being done in ceramics today in this country.

As in most cases of this kind, one's first impression is utter confusion. Afterward comes tranquility for reflection. This I have had in the several weeks since my return to the Peninsula, making the following comments on ceramics the products of both my sight-seeing and my assimilation of what I saw.

Ceramics today encompasses a broad diversity of only slightly related fields. From high voltage electronics techniques, to architectural-constructional, to hand-thrown utilitarian and decorative

No Flagpole At Carmel High Now! Department Of Education Bans New 50-Footer .. Old Shorty Gone

It's beginning to look as if Carmel High School won't have a new flagpole after all.

Latest chapter in a long story of misadventure is the news that the 50-foot flagpole donated to the school and brought there by Carmel firemen in mid-December does not meet State Department of Education requirements for flagpoles and is therefore unusable.

It's just not sturdy enough, according to school authorities. Flagpoles, to meet safety and insurance requirements, should be made of boiler plate, but the gift flagpole was fashioned from iron pipe.

Result of this latest blow to the flagpole project is that Carmel High has no new pole standing, nor even its old flagpole, which was taken down to make way for the new. School flags are now flying from the halyard at the football field.

The saga of the flagpole actually began back in the autumn when High School Principal Warren Edwards purchased a new over-sized, 20-foot-long flag from government surplus sources and

PADRE HOOP SQUADS AT HOLLISTER FRIDAY NIGHT

Carmel High School's varsity, lightweight, and junior - varsity cage teams travel to Hollister tomorrow night for a triple-header with the Haybaler squads. This will be the first league game for the Padres this season, and it comes following two-week's inactivity during the Christmas vacation period. However, the Carmel lads got in a few practice licks last week and will hit the boards for three days' practice this week before trying out the struggling Haybalers.

Hollister has been at a low ebb in basketball for the last few years and appears to be the B-Division CCAL doormats again this season. In five outings so far this season, the Haybalers have yet to win one and Coach Harry Nicholson's lads have taken some good drubbings. Top players for the Hollister varsity are Mike Ottmar and Bud Silva.

The Padre junior-varsity will be after win number one against the Hollister reserves and this should be an opportune time for Clyde Klaumann's charges to notch a victory. Opening the action for Carmel's jayvees will be Stan Michelson, Steve Johnson, Dave Harris, Bob Wells, and Al Nishimura.

Carmel's lightweight squad has been impressive in early-season games and figures to be one of the toughest in the league title chase. Coach Harold Lippstreu figures to start Al Arndt, Jack DeWitt, Enborg Halle, Jose Fernandez, and Rich Wise against the Hayseeds who have one victory in five outings so far this season.

BASKETBALL COACHES AND SPORTS WRITERS CHART THE SEASON

Coast Counties Athletic League basketball coaches and sportswriters gathered at the Salinas Bambu Village Tuesday evening, and between the two groups came up with the winning hoop squads in both the A and B-divisions of the CCAL. Of course, not a basket has been scored in league play so far this season so the picks of the experts could be shot full of holes before the season is over.

In the B-League, consensus of opinion has the Gilroy Mustangs finishing on top, with the Carmel Padres in hot pursuit along with San Lorenzo and Pacific Grove. Bob Hagen, Gilroy mentor, is willing to go along with the choice and is high on the chances of his Mustangs. King City figured to be a power in the B-division varsity, but lost a 6-6 center via the transfer route. Writers and coaches alike weren't sure how to figure the San Lorenzo Valley Cougars and their new coach, Regis Hurley. Hurley was a very successful coach while at Monterey's Junipero Memorial High and has some fine material at San Lorenzo. Lack of capable reserves may hurt the Cougars, but Hurley is confident his charges can beat any team in the league when his quintet is hitting on all five. Carmel's Dick Lawitzke praised his two hoop stalwarts, Jim Brown and Pete Morse, and picked Gilroy, San Lorenzo, Pacific Grove, and King City to give the Padres a tussle for the league crown.

In the B-division lightweight race, it was Gilroy and Carmel running 1-2 once again. Carmel's 4-1 record is the best in the lightweight division and Coach Harold Lippstreu has potent reserves to go with a fine starting five.

In the A-division of the CCAL, an outright winner didn't emerge from the two-hour discussion, but all agreed Monterey and Salinas would be tough for the other three to handle. Monterey was given the rebound edge in the league, with Steve Smith of Santa Cruz picked as the outstanding cage prospect in the area.

League play starts in both divisions this Friday night and it remains to be seen how expert the experts are in picking basketball winners.

THROUGH THE HOOP

Most exciting basketball player on the Monterey Peninsula is still Ky Miyamoto, former Pine Cone softball star, who is adding loads of class to the hoop sport with his deft playmaking for Schulken's of Monterey. The veteran Peninsula athletic favorite has slowed down a step or two, is a little rounder in the middle, and needs a breather more often, but his accurate behind-the-back passes and two-hand set shots are unbelievable. Ky's Schulken quintet just wrapped up the Monterey holiday recreation tournament by whipping the best teams from Salinas, Sunnyvale, and the Monterey Peninsula . . . Bob Updike's Carmel Merchant squad entered the recent Monterey holiday tournament as a favor to the tournament directors and won its opening game against the Seaside Tigers only to drop the semi-final clash to the championship Schulken gang and consolation final to a red-hot Sunnyvale crew. Paced by Utah's Tyler Wilborn, Sunnyvale blasted the Carmel lads 114 to 46. Wilborn pumped through 38 points for a new tournament record. Playing for the Carmel Merchants were Fred and Frank Bucher, Bob Wise, George Wightman, Mervyn Sutton, Pat Boyle, Andy Gray, Mike Mosolf, and Bob Updike . . . If Charley White, high-jumping Schulken performer, is eligible for duty with Larry Cummins' MPC Lobos next semester, he may be the answer to another championship for the Maroon and White hoopsters. A strong rebounder, talented passer, and prolific scorer, White was a vital cog in Schulken's holiday tournament victory and would be a welcome addition to the injury and flu-laden Lobo squad. The Lobos found the going rough in tournament action against their own Coast JC opponents, and getting the same treatment at the Hancock tournament in Santa Maria. Although the Foothill Owls clipped the Lobos in the Coast JC tourney, Coach Cummins' charges are eager for the rematch which takes place tomorrow night at the Monterey High gym . . . Good prep hoop fare on tap at Monterey High this Saturday night when the talented Sacred Heart quintet from San Francisco invades the Monterey High new-look gymnasium. Although the Toreadors have been able to handle most of the football teams in the San Francisco Triple A League, they have been less than successful against the Big City basketball squads.

The film, Pika Country with Emerson Scott as commentator will be presented on Wednesday evening in Sunset Auditorium at 8:00 o'clock. This is the third in the current Audubon Wildlife Film series co-sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the Carmel Unified School District.

The little rabbit-like pika is one of the leading characters in a stirring film of the majestic northwest, photographed in color and narrated by Emerson Scott of Caro, Michigan, who has traveled over much of the globe. He attended George Williams College in Chicago and later worked for the YMCA, taking time out to make two trips to Alaska. During the second World War, Mr. Scott was an Army sergeant who fought in the European campaigns. After he was wounded in Italy and hospitalized for eight months, he worked for the American Red Cross. Later he served as chairman of the board of trustees of Michigan's Veterans' Trust Fund. He is a member of the Adventurers' Club of Chicago, the International Platform Association and the Photographic Society of America. His artistry with the camera, combined with his understanding and knowledge of wildlife have made him a popular Audubon Screen Tour speaker.

Pika Country, covers that area of the U. S. from central California northward to the Canadian border, and from central Colorado westward to the Pacific Ocean. It is an area rich in history and natural beauties.

INCREASED INTEREST RATES

Savings deposits at Crocker-Anglo National Bank will earn interest at 3½% per annum beginning January 1, 1962, it was announced by President Paul E. Hoover.

In announcing the increase in interest from 3% to 3½%, Hoover said that the bank's present "instant interest" features will remain in effect, including the provision that savings deposits earn interest from the date of deposit, and that interest is compounded quarterly.

Wilderness Of The West

A monthly column
By C. Edward Graves

35—MOTOR SCOOTERS

Last August part of this column was devoted to the subject of motor scooters on our national forest trails. It had been brought home to us in Monterey County by the arrest of four men for riding their "Tote-Gotes" — one particular brand of motor scooters — on the forbidden wilderness trails in Los Padres National Forest. In the months since then there have been several interesting developments in the fast-moving controversy between the comparatively small number of people who use these contraptions and the general public which is gradually becoming aware of the danger involved.

Most conservationists feel that motor scooters should be excluded from all national forest trails as well as from any trail owned by the state or a city or county. They are, of course, excluded from trails on all private property unless they can get permission from the owner of the property. There are many obvious reasons for this feeling.

In the first place, they constitute a real danger to hikers and horseback riders. Instances have been reported of horses being scared and throwing their riders into a mountain canyon bordering the trail. In the second place it is impossible to enjoy trail travel in the midst of the noise and commotion caused by these vehicles. Where they are allowed, they will soon monopolize the trails. Third, Forest Service supervisors say that they are a serious erosion danger. Fourth, they are a fire hazard from the sparks in their exhausts.

These motor scooter riders seldom travel alone. Frequently they hire a truck in some large city and transport as many as 20 or 30 scooters on this truck to the end of the road, and from there travel in packs on the trails. The motive is not to enjoy the trails, but to flaunt their prowess in negotiating difficult steep and rocky and dangerous portions of the trails. He who fails and is left behind is the goat—the Tote-Gote, perhaps!

Since the Forest Service has announced its plans to build 500,000 miles of timber access roads in the near future—20 times the distance around the world—it would seem that the motor scooters will have ample opportunity to test their efficiency on these roads. Why should they have any more privileges than the owners of four-wheel vehicles? And yet the Supervisor of Los Padres National Forest has just announced from his headquarters in Santa Barbara, with the backing of the Regional Forester in San Francisco, that four trails in the northern section of Los Padres National Forest will be open to motor scooters, thereby virtually excluding all other forms of transportation.

On December 12 a hearing was held before the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in Salinas on an ordinance that would make it possible to prosecute violations of the Forest Service ruling in local courts. Proceedings of this kind in Federal courts are very slow and difficult. At this hearing a representative of the American Motor Scooter Association appeared to speak against the ordinance. This was a very significant action. That he should have traveled many hundreds of miles to attend a hearing means that this commercial organization reasons that if they can throw a monkey wrench in the works of prosecuting offenders for violations of rulings, they can sell more motor scooters.

This hearing was adjourned to February 19, partly because, according to a report in a Peninsula daily newspaper, "Ranger Alex Campbell, who had initiated the request for the ordinance, told the Board that he now realized there were some things that should be clarified." Let us hope that this clarification will have been accomplished before February 19. In the meantime it is very important that everyone who favors the conservation viewpoint in this controversy should write to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in Salinas, asking them to back the Forest Service in enforcing the regulations against the use of motor scooters on Forest Service and county-owned trails.

Shoe Store Employe Arraigned Today On Grand Theft Charge

The grand theft charge springs from Mrs. Walker's alleged embezzlement of an estimated $4,867 from her employers during the time she worked in Carmel, according to a report made by Carmel Police Lieutenant William H. Ellis, who with members of the district attorney's office has been investigating the matter over the past four months.

Preliminary examination for Mrs. Walker was set by Judge Ray Baugh for January 16, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and she was released on $1,050 bond.

According to the police report, the Rowes, who operate The Shoe Box and The Village Shoe Tree in Carmel, hired Mrs. Walker, wife of Lawrence Walker, an engineer with the California Highway Department, in July, 1960, and after a training period turned over to her the entire bookkeeping operation for their stores.

On August 16, this summer according to the report, Mrs. Rowe notified Carmel police that her insurance adjustors had found discrepancies in the bookkeeping, including alleged forgeries and thefts of money from both retail stores.

She had first suspected something was wrong, Mrs. Rowe told police, prior to July 10, 1961, when she found register cards from her accounts receivable file had been moved to the paid-up file. Mrs. Rowe said that during that month, when she notified her bookkeeper that she would like to speak to her about the matter, Mrs. Walker "went out to lunch and never came back."

Later, according to the report, Mrs. Walker wrote her former employers from Atascadero, asking for any back pay owed her by the Rowes when she left. A letter also came from the Atascadero branch of the Bank of America, saying Mrs. Walker had applied there for a job and given the Rowes as references.

On December 1, 1961, Lieutenant Ellis and Denisel Smith of the district attorney's office went to Atascadero to interview Mrs. Walker, who at that time denied any knowledge of the suspected embezzlement.

No Flagpole At HS New 50-Footer Banned Old Shorty Gone

began flying it from the school's 23-foot-high flagpole.

At the P-TA scholarship carnival in October a prospective P-TA member, Loyal Wiekhorst, deplored the out-of-scale arrangement and made a sweeping offer to join the P-TA if a new pole were acquired.

Robert "Waldo" Hicks then donated pipe and Francis Whitaker welding service to put the pipe together at his (Whitaker's) Forge-in-the-Forest.

Came the first major problem. Who would carry the heavy 50-foot flagstaff up the hill to the school? A plan for having students march up the hill with the thing, to the strains of Pomp and Circumstance was discarded as unsafe, and Carmel firemen, including Chief Robert Smith, hoisted the burden on their own shoulders and walked it up the hill.

Once there, the pole couldn't be erected because a hinge had to be provided at its base, making for more ease in lowering it in case effigies and other alien objects were run up by high-spirited students.

But today's bottle-neck seemed final. Assistant Superintendent of Schools Wayne Greenfield said his understanding of the affair was that the situation couldn't be remedied, at least not without application of a lot of ingenuity.

Perhaps there is some Carmelite equal to the challenge?

Lydia Weld

Miss Lydia Weld, former well-known engineer and naval architect who lived for many years in Carmel, died Monday in San Francisco. She was 84 years old.

Although she had suffered recently from a cardiac condition, her death, from a heart attack, was unexpected. She moved to San Francisco from Carmel four years ago, making her home at the Protestant Episcopal residence for retired persons.

Among Miss Weld's many distinguished attainments was the fact that she was the first woman to complete courses in engineering and naval architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Born March 11, 1877, in Boston, Massachusetts, she attended finishing school in preparation for Bryn Mawr College, but applied instead for admission to MIT, graduating from there in 1903.

A brilliant mathematician and draftsman, she went to work for the Newport News Shipbuilding Company, serving there through World War I.

After the war she retired temporarily from her career, coming to Southern California where she was engaged in ranching. In 1933 she came to Carmel, building the first house next to Carmel River Lagoon on Carmel Point.

She had many friends here, where she was known for her lively interest in current events of both an international and community nature. She was a member of the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters, of which she was at one time president.

During World War II, she volunteered as a member of the Air Observation Corps, later returning in 1942 to her career, serving as senior draftsman for the Moore Shipyard in Oakland.

She returned to Carmel follow the war years, and considered Carmel her home to the end of her life.

Most of Miss Weld's family preceded her in death, including two sisters who died many years ago, and a brother, the late Reverend George Weld of Santa Barbara. Survivors are a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 o'clock in the Protestant Episcopal chapel at the retirement home, which is at 2770 Lombard Street, San Francisco.

ware, this clay-based art is as historically ancient as it is presently dynamic and resurgent.

Science has found for ceramics so many important applications that ceramic engineering has been established as a field of industrial endeavor in its own right. And the art world has undergone a heatedly controversial absorption of the ceramic art with the enrichment that always springs from such controversies.

Particularly in the relationship of ceramic handcraft to ceramic art reside the opposing arguments that have resulted in such strikingly diversified pottery. American potters, like their literary counterparts, drew heavily upon European tradition, not daring to classify the crude utilitarian handcrafted vessels of a frontier culture with the polished, civilized crafts of a venerable culture.

However, the influence of Indian pottery and the mellowing of the frontier environment eventually reacted upon our potters. Becoming aware of the beauty of simplicity and the unique tradition of American ceramics, they began deliberately to throw off the bonds of European influence and to follow a new expression of honest, simple, earth-derived pottery.

During this process of reappraisal, the modern movements in art, all clamoring for greater freedom of expression, created restless legions of artist-craftsmen seeking ever more individualistic means of expressing their ideas in clay. As a result the utilitarian tradition of pottery was the first to fall.

The utility of a vase, for instance, is often a hindrance to the full embodiment of an artist's concept. As a craftsman he is obliged to maintain certain standards of utility — as an artist he must answer to himself for his creative compromises. Actually, one might say that the temperament of the individual artist-craftsman determines the degree of craftsmanship or art exhibited by his work.

Ceramic sculpture executed on the pottery wheel is an example of pure non-utilitarian (solely decorative) pottery which was created on the wheel merely from force of habit or because the shape so closely resembled a traditional shape that it could most easily be done that way.

Many schools of thought have arisen to proclaim the best way of utilizing the new freedom in ceramics. But most of these schools agree on certain things—that the traditional way is wrong and that ornateness is to be deplored.

In this effort to achieve simplicity and directness of design, however, lies the danger of poorly crafted ceramics being classed as boldly original. Compounding the problem, of course, are those amateurish creations that, by chance and not by artistic foresight, do, indeed, exhibit a high degree of excellent originality.

These pieces must not be rejected by the viewer on the basis of any previous opinions concerning the usual caliber of work issuing from their creator. On the other hand, another pitfall would be to regard a work with respect because of its lack of any design principle at all with which the viewer could consciously or subconsciously orient himself.

To penetrate much of the confusion shrouding modern ceramics, it is necessary to postulate at least one firm criterion of excellence: a sound principle of design must be embodied in the work, however subtle it might be—it need not be an established principle, but it must emphatically be comprehensible.

International Show Of Children's Work At AFA Galleries

An exciting collection of international children's paintings is currently on exhibit at the American Federation of Arts gallery on Lincoln Street south of Ocean Avenue. Brought to this country by the International Child Art Center of San Francisco, the exhibit shows work by children of six to 15 from such widely varied countries as Vietnam, Finland, Kenya, Argentina, Yugoslavia, and Hong Kong. Bright water color and wax pastel are the principal mediums. The paintings are fresh and original, with a free use of color and a satisfying, intricate sense of design, almost all of them conveying a feeling of direct communication with the country represented and with its inhabitants. The paintings will be on view through January 27 and each one of them is a delight. The exhibit will be open daily from 1:00 to 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. —V. M.

John Wright

Requiem Mass was celebrated in Carmel Mission Basilica yesterday morning for John H. Wright whose death occurred in a Salinas hospital on Saturday. He had been in failing health for a long time.

Mr. Wright was born in Neponset, Massachusetts, on September 28, 1891. He was in the dry cleaning business in Boston, Massachusetts, for many years, then came to California 11 years ago and was employed in a hotel in Tulare before moving to Carmel a year and a half ago. His home was at Pico and Guadalupe streets.

His marriage to the former Alice M. Eaton took place in Boston on October 9, 1916.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Wright is survived by a son, J. Richard Wright of Holliston, Massachusetts; five daughters, Mrs. Louise Parkhurst and Mrs. Jane Shepard of Carmel; Mrs. Polly Richards of Chicago, Illinois; Mrs. Barbara Kauffman of Newton Center, Massachusetts; and Mrs. Dorothy Barwise of Wayne, Pennsylvania; a sister, Mrs. Mary Shepard of Springfield, Massachusetts.

Rosary was recited on Tuesday evening at the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel where, also, brief rites were held yesterday prior to the Requiem Mass at the Mission. Burial was in Monterey Catholic Cemetery.

Dean Gorham, of Decatur, Illinois, who with his sister Miss Helen Gorham of Carmel are both members of the local branch of the National Audubon Society, made a special trip from his home to be in Carmel last Friday for the Christmas census. Branson, who has recently moved to the Peninsula to practice pediatrics with Dr. Talcott Bates, George P. Lamont, Vern Yadon, and Bobby Ricklefs.

Late in the evening when even the owl counters decided to call it a day, the group, including Mrs. Lamont and Miss Gorham, gathered for dinner at the Laidlaw Williams home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Ernest Nelson, Jr., are seen, above, at the reception following their marriage on Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Wayfarer. The bride is the former Lynne Ann Dufton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edward Dufton. The bridegroom's parents are Fredrick Nelson and Mrs. Winifred Nelson. The ceremony was performed at 1:00 o'clock by Mr. Robert Brown of Hayward, uncle of the bridegroom.

Lynn was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street-length satin brocade gown with a square neckline accented in back by a bow from which streamers fell to the hemline. Her elbow-length hand-rolled illusion veil was held in place by a matching satin brocade bow and she carried a shower bouquet of phalaenopsis and bouvardia.

She had two attendants. They were her sister, Judy Dufton, as maid of honor, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Lynn Orfield, Jr., as bridesmaid. They wore similar red velveteen sheath dresses trimmed with satin. Red veils fell from their bow hats, and white carnations and red holly were mingled in their bouquets.

Jerry Stuefloten was best man, and ushers were William Dufton of Ross, the bride's cousin, and Gerald Weirich of San Rafael.

Mrs. Dufton attended her daughter's marriage in a turquoise silk dress and jacket, beige accessories and a brown cymbidium corsage.

Mrs. Nelson, the bridegroom's mother, was clad in a blue and white suit with gray and white accessories. Pink cymbidiums were used in her corsage.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents in Carmel Valley, identified by a huge white bell suspended over a garden pond.

After the bridal couple had cut their tiered wedding cake, Lynn changed to a three-piece gold knit suit before leaving with her husband on a honeymoon which took them to the State of Washington.

They will live in Olympia while Fred is stationed at nearby Fort Lewis. He was recently recalled to active Army duty.

Lynn graduated from Carmel High School, continued her education at the College of the Pacific and the University of Nevada, and also worked for a year in San Francisco.

Fred also is a Carmel High School graduate. He served in the U.S. Army for three years following graduation, then was a student at Monterey Peninsula College until his recent recall to active duty.

Smorgasbord at the Turners'

Family recipes were used in the some 30 varieties of Swedish dishes served at a smorgasbord given by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Turner during the holidays. Assisting hosts were Dr. and Mrs. Reuben Johnson. Guests arrived at the Turners for the gala affair at 7:00 o'clock on December 28. The room decor included the family Christmas tree in blue with groupings of burning candles, tinkling music boxes brought from Europe, and the lightihg of the candelabra which added to the Swedish atmosphere of the party. Recordings of Christmas music made in Sweden, Italy and Germany were used in the background music throughout the evening. Guests found their places at card tables centered with colorful candle arrangements.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Mercer Beall, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Wally Getz, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Seibel, Mrs. C. B. Bentley, Mrs. Homer Echols, Mrs. Millie Humphreys, Mr. Kent Johnson, Roddy Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Johnson of Berkeley and Mr. Jacques van Seters of Rotterdam, Holland.

Dr. and Mrs. Johnson were surprised with a Happy Anniversary cake in honor of their 24th wedding anniversary and singing by the group. Movies of the group filmed on previous occasions were shown along with the Bing Crosby tournament films made last year. Movies and pictures were filmed throughout the evening by Wally Getz, Floyd Kimball and Roddy Johnson.

Martins Back From Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin are back from a month's automobile trip through Mexico, visiting Puerto Vallarta and the old colonial towns of Queretaro, San Miguel Allende and Guanajuato. Asked if they had any adventures en route, Jack mentioned that failing to make a proper stop before crossing a railroad track, the Martins were stopped by policemen who wouldn't give them a ticket but insisted upon their paying 50 pesos (the Martins had offered them 20). Although almost no one stops at railroad crossings in Mexico, the moral to this tale is that it's a wise procedure to do so, Jack insists.

Klaus Lehmann's New Venture

Here for the holidays from New York City visiting his mother, Mrs. Walter Lehmann, Klaus Lehmann is enthusiastic about an organization he has recently formed with two young associates, known as Outline Production International Corporation. Klaus describes his venture thus: "OPIC, as we call it, is an organization created to serve the television and film production needs of the international broadcaster as well as domestic business, industry and education. With services ranging from consultation and representation to full scale television or film production, OPIC is prepared to meet specific requirements and to mold its flexible organization to each client's needs."

Klaus stresses that although OPIC has stiff competition from larger, longer established companies, "we have had some small successes." The young men have a Canadian subsidiary, and have had dealings with German broadcasters and with the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Has anyone lost a black leather key case containing three keys? Olga Scheffler reports such a case was found at Monterey airport and can be claimed by telephoning or calling at the airport terminal office building.

Only lettering on the case is "genuine calf" and that's no help in trying to identify an owner, Mrs. Scheffler says.

Pianist John Browning, who has many Carmel friends, made when he was stationed at Fort Ord and on frequent visits here since, was released by the Pentagon from recall to active duty with the U. S. Army at Fort Lewis, Washington. This action was taken because of the many concert commitments John has throughout the United States. If he did not fulfill these obligations persons, both in orchestras and on maintenance staffs in major cities where he is to play, would suffer hardship through unemployment, was the basis on which he asked for the release.

Construction on the new Community Hospital at the top of Carmel hill is 80 per cent completed, William House, superintendent of the job, announced this week. He added that the two and one-half million dollar non-profit hospital will be finished in April. It has 100 private rooms on a 22-acre site in Del Monte Forest. Architect for the hospital is Edward Stone. The project is being financed by donated funds, and only $460,000 more are needed.

Miss Bliss herself has recently returned from a 16-month tour of Europe, during which she drove some 18,000 miles in her small British car. FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Starting the year on a note of joy, we bring you The Rising Gorge by S. J. Perelman. This is a collection of 34 of his funniest pieces, never before collected in a book. A reviewer says that they were done "by our master humorist, whose good sense, wild laughter, and reckless forays behind enemy lines bring succor to the most persecuted minority of all—the embattled Sane."

Would you like to know how to relax? All right, all right, here is the book for you. Karin Roon's New Way to Relax it is called. Before ever the book starts, there are several pages printed on yellow paper which are called The Essential Five Minutes That Can Change Your Life. The idea is that you read these yellow pages, and if they do not sell you on the author's system, you bring the book back to the library and all is forgiven. There are lots of diagrams, short paragraphs, plenty of directions. Please do come to our relaxing party.

The buying and selling of houses goes on at a great rate in these parts, and here we have a book which is supposed to make the process easy and relatively painless. Written by John Denton, the book is called Buying or Selling Your Home. It takes up general considerations, the broker and the contract, the financing, and many other considerations inherent in the operation. Read this and perhaps you will decide to keep the old place after all.

Modern Primitives: Masters of Naive Painting is the title of a book by Oto Bihalji-Merin. In case you never heard of the gentleman, he is a "noted European art critic and historian." As in any book of this kind, the illustrations are what make or break the production, and in this case they make it. They are delightful.

Dr. Archibald Hunter is a professor of New Testament at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland. He has recently published a small book on the subject of the parables. His book is written in readable style and with deep understanding. Its title is Interpreting the Parables.

Happy New Year to you all.

Four persons were arrested for disturbing the peace; three for supplying liquor to juveniles; one for jaywalking; three on narcotics charges; one for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. One arrest each was made in the following categories: suspicion of arson, assault, battery, concealed weapon, default on judgment, false report, hitchhiking, hit run driving, unemployment code, unlawful entry, vehicle stripping. Four bad check arrests were made; four for various Ord code violations; two for vagrancy; and two for violation of probation.

Of the 2,616 reports made by Carmel police last year, 337 were on animals, 984 about houses watched at the request of occupants. The rest were miscellaneous in nature.

"CLEAN THE CUSPIDORS"

IN MY FIRST real estate office job (I was 14) I copied documents, filed things, and weekly polished the three brass cuspidors. I don't know that this experience was valuable as far as real estate goes, but I can still remember what my boss said in assigning me the latter job: "There's only one way to run a real estate office: everything has to be CLEAN." An old-fashioned idea to which we still cling. In 1962, as always, we promise our clients that the properties we list and offer for sale have "clean" financing—mortgages from stable, known lenders which are safe to assume; that our properties will be fairly priced for today's market; that all facts regarding them are available to our buyers. If your home is available, or if you want to buy a new one, we would like to help you make 1962 a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Milton Mayer Talk Tomorrow Evening At Junior College

Milton Mayer, Carmel author-journalist, who has been teaching theology abroad, will give a special lecture at Monterey Peninsula College on Friday evening.

He will speak at 8:00 o'clock in the Armory on The European Resident, emphasizing in his talk the problems of the people in behind-the-Iron-Curtain countries "who must, from day to day, piece together their lives under Soviet control."

Under the auspices of the American Friends Service Committee, of which he is a member, Mr. Mayer spent about a month each in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and East Germany as the guest of Protestant churches on a former trip to Europe. More recently, he has been a guest professor in theology at the Comenius Institute in Prague. He will return there after a month of lecturing in over 40 colleges and universities in the United States.

Mr. Mayer has contributed articles to national magazines and co-authored the book, Revolution in Education, with Mortimer Adler.

He attended the University of Chicago, taught at William Penn College, the University of Chicago and Frankfurt University, and has been a guest lecturer at many educational institutions both here and abroad.

His MPC lecture is open to the public without charge.

MPC Students Open In Political Farce On Monday Evening

The Girls in 509, a zany political comedy about two maiden ladies who vow to remain in seclusion in a New York hotel until "That Man" is out of the White House—and do, for 25 years—will start a week-long run Monday at Monterey Peninsula College.

The student production in the Little Theatre on Campus, first of the MPC season, is directed by Richard Frazer, drama instructor, with student Mela Ferrer as assistant director.

Peopled with such characters as a professor of journalism from a small Mid-Western college who is under the impression he is working for the New York Times, the National Chairman of the Republican Party and the National Chairman of the Democratic Party, The Girls in 509 has been called "uniformly bright" and "funny and loony" by New York critics.

Camilla Wheeler and Leata Thomas play the two leading roles. Other cast members are Ralph Alexander, Winston Sargent, Mark Vance, Linda Alexander, Gordon Hurd, Harry Chittick, Butch Williams, Gary Vetovich and Bob Nixon.

Curtain time is 8:30 each evening through January 13. Tickets will be available at the theatre door.

Lucian Philion

Lucian Joseph Philion of Mishawaka, Indiana, died of a heart attack on Sunday. He came to Carmel with his wife, Emma Louise, for a holiday visit with their son, Thomas Francis Philion.

Mr. Philion was born at Ottawa in the Canadian province of Ontario on October 17, 1889. He was a World War I veteran and a member of Mishawaka Council, Knights of Columbus. Prior to retirement, he was a buyer for a men's clothing store.

Besides his wife and his son in Carmel, he is survived by another son, Lucian J. Philion, Jr., of Seattle, Washington; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Louise Morin of South Bend, Indiana; and ten grandchildren.

Mission Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements for the funeral in Mishawaka, where burial also was arranged.

Council Worries About Sidewalk Planting

Hearing Councilman Chitwood's report on the plan for asking traffic authorities to discard the single directional sign saying "Carmel" on Highway One at Carpenter Street for a more informational sign indicating there are two entrances to Carmel from the highway, the Ocean Avenue entrance and the Carpenter-Serra Street entrance. Chitwood planned to take the matter up with both state and county authorities.

A vote to make available sidewalk repair funds for an already authorized project of rebuilding the curb and widening the sidewalk along Lincoln Street south of Ocean Avenue adjacent to the Church of the Wayfarer. Between $700 and $1,000 has been estimated for the project.

Adoption of a report of the public welfare committee which indicated that the municipal code extends to the board of adjustments the right to limit the length of time during which a use permit may operate. (Wording of the code gives the board the right to impose "conditions.") The council then voted to investigate the need for adding the word "limitations" to the wording of the code.

Adoption of a recommendation of the administration committee that boards and commissions of the city remain the same as they are now constituted. Councilman Francis Whitaker voted "No." (Historically Whitaker has been an opponent of what he calls "a proliferation of committees.")

Approved appointment of Fred Duhring to the Harrison Memorial Library board of trustees to replace Dr. Fred Farley who has moved out of the city corporation limits, and re-appointments of Donald M. Craig and Horace Lyon to three-year terms on the library board, and of George Walker to the Monterey Peninsula Garbage and Refuse Disposal District board.

NEW BOOKSTORE OWNER

Henry Meade Williams is the new owner of Wells' Books and Music store on Ocean Avenue. He purchased the business from Col. Joseph L. Wells with whom he has been associated in operating the shop for several years.

The son of the late Jesse Lynch Williams, Pulitzer prize winning novelist and playwright who established a home here in the 1920's, Henry Williams first came to Carmel at that time and spent winters here for some years before becoming a permanent resident following World War II.

Prior to this he was associated with Sears Publishing firm in the East and feature editor of American magazine. A short story writer, his work has been published in Collier's and other national magazines.

He and his wife, Mona, a novelist, are the parents of three children, all graduates of the Carmel schools. They are Mrs. Edgar Bryant (Karen), Mrs. John Faia, Jr. (Lacy) and Chris Williams, a senior student at Pratt Institute in New York.

Carl Kappes

Carl Henry Kappes, Jr., of Carmel, died Monday at his home after having been ill for some time. A Carmelite for the past three years, he made his home at Camino Del Monte and Third Avenue.

A native of New York City, where he was born September 19, 1904, Mr. Kappes was a graduate of Columbia University and had been vice president and advertising manager of Yachting Magazine prior to his retirement.

Council Considers Four Matters On January Tree Tour

On its official tree tour meeting Tuesday afternoon, the Carmel City Council took action on four items:

Approved P. G. & E. request to put a pole in a pathway on Eleventh Avenue between Scenic Road and San Antonio Street.

Mrs. Herbert Tolfree, who had requested permission to trim a pine on the northeast corner of Lincoln and Ninth because she felt it was a pedestrian hazard, was notified by the council that the matter had already been taken care of.

A request for planting an additional tree at the Doud Arcade was dropped from the agenda because the tree has already been planted.

And a request for removal of three pines between Fourth and Fifth avenues on Mission Street was denied.

Open House Saturday Ends Security State Bank Anniversary

A surrey, a "wheel," a 1903 auto and an array of Gay-90's period costumes worn by bank employes helped lend atmosphere this week to the 73rd anniversary celebration of the Security State Bank in Pacific Grove.

The vehicles are displayed on the sidewalk. The auto is a vintage Ford, the first ever sold in the world by the first Ford dealer, a transaction made in San Francisco in 1903, according to William A. Burkett, president of the bank.

The "wheel" is, of course, an early bicycle, one of those that was almost a unicycle, but not quite, a tiny wheel rolling back of the out-sized one.

The bank, which first opened its doors January 5, 1889, is the oldest on the Peninsula and the only independent, home-owned bank in Monterey County.

Climaxing the week-long celebration will be an open-house for the public all day Saturday.

Still in the mill, according to Mr. Burkett, are plans to open a branch of the bank in Carmel, following approval of the bank's pending application for the new branch.

campus at the mouth of Carmel Valley. The $897,000 school is being constructed by Daniels and House of Monterey who took a $4,600 option calling for completion of the school by August 1, 1962, well before classes begin in the fall.

Ground was broken on November 30 for the school, but heavy rains about that time caused fears the building would be delayed. Some 600 junior high students from the Carmel Unified School District will attend the school next fall.
